The Center for Health Organization Transformation (CHOT) is an industry-university cooperative research center funded by the National Science Foundation (NSF) and industry members to conduct research supporting major management, clinical, and information technology innovations in healthcare.

CHOT conducts research to support the implementation of evidence-based transformational strategies within healthcare organizations.

The Center’s research model relies on the knowledge and experience of healthcare leaders to guide academic research.

Texas A&M Health Science Center

Bita Kash
bakash@tamhsc.edu
979.436.9462
chotnsf.org